The Quarterly Journal of the Illinois State Genealogical Society welcomes submissions of interest to researchers of Illinois ancestors. The Quarterly publishes scholarly articles as well as select features and columns. All submissions should be of previously unpublished articles, features, or columns.

Transcriptions and abstracts are considered for publication in the Quarterly. These may be from any series of documents or records related to Illinois ancestry.

Transcriptions should be as close as possible to the original, including spelling, punctuation, capitalization, and grammar. Where a word or series of words is completely illegible in the original, the author should include [?] to indicate the unreadable word or passage; it is best not to guess. Any author comments also should be placed in brackets.

Abstracts should remain as close to the original as a transcription, but with boiler plate sections removed and replaced with a series of three ellipses or a shorter version of the missing text in brackets, to indicate replaced words or passages, e.g. “on the 26th day of November A.D. 1864 . . . [and] she . . .”

Case studies considered for publication in the Quarterly should include research methods replicable by and useful to other researchers. Case studies should rely primarily on original documents and records.

Submissions must be in Microsoft Word, submitted by email to isgsquarterly@ilgensoc.org. Images should be in separate jpg, gif, or bmp files in gray scale at 300 dpi, if possible. Images for articles are highly encouraged; it may not be possible to include all submitted images in the publication.

Transcriptions, quotations, images, and illustrations must be copyright free or include a statement from the owner of the copyright indicating permission to reprint in the Quarterly. It is the responsibility of the author to obtain any necessary permissions.

Citations. All articles must be appropriately documented. Articles referencing documents, dates, or definitive events that are not cited will be returned to the author for correction.

Citations in the Quarterly follow Elizabeth Shown Mills’ Evidence Explained as closely as possible. For authors unfamiliar with the Evidence Explained standard, all citations must be complete enough for any reader or researcher to acquire the document or record. The Quarterly neither bolds nor caps names.

The Quarterly does not set absolute word lengths for articles. It may be necessary to publish longer articles in multiple issues. Whenever this is the case, the editor will first ask the author for a natural break in the submission, but the Quarterly editor reserves the right to edit stories as necessary for layout. Authors receive a proof of the article before publication for their comments and necessary changes.

The Quarterly is published in March, June, September, and December. Articles are published based on length and fit within a given issue. The following are the submission deadlines:

- Spring: February 1
- Summer: May 1
- Fall: August 1
- Winter: November 1

Copyright: The Illinois State Genealogical Society retains worldwide, royalty-free license and release to the exclusive right of first publication in the Quarterly, the non-exclusive right to use the work in whole or in part in other formats. Authors agree to not publish the work, or authorize publication by another publisher, in whole or in part, within six (6) months of the actual publication date of the work in the Quarterly without the express written consent of ISGS, unless the subsequent publication is substantially different from the work as it appears in the Quarterly. All authors whose work is published in the Quarterly are required to sign a publication release.

It is highly recommended that all authors review previous issues of the Quarterly before submitting their article. Authors should include a two- to three-sentence biography with submission.
